WCI student ranks third in Brain Bee

By Jennifer McFee

Brains were buzzing at a recent neuroscience competition where a local student earned accolades for her impressive performance.

Charlie Huard, a Grade 10 student at Warren Collegiate Institute, recently competed in the Manitoba Neuroscience Network's 2023 Brain Bee, a provincial competition that tests students on their neuroscience knowledge.

After the competition, participants had the chance to tour research labs at University of Manitoba's Bannatyne Campus, where the event took place. They got to hold a human brain, use high quality microscopes and see what research is underway in the realm of neuroscience.

WCI teacher Amanda Dion explained that students are given three textbooks to study, and then they're asked a series of questions in two rounds.

Manitoba Neuroscience Network hosted the 2023 Brain Bee.

"In the first round, students are divided into small groups and are asked 40 questions. Their answers to these questions are scored. The top two students in each group progrand to the final round," Dion said.

"In the final round, students are asked 15 anatomical questions—these ranged from being shown diagrams of the brain, blood network that feeds the brain and specific nerves that had to be identified — and five diagnosis questions. They are given the symptoms of five patients and they must diagnose their neurological disorder. The winner represents Manitoba at the National Brain Bee, and the winner of that goes to represent Canada at the World Championship."

This year marked the first time Warren Collegiate Institute participated in the competition. Charlie was the only competitor from the school — and she ended up earning third place overall.

"I was quite surprised to find I had won third. During the competition, I found myself to be relatively nervous, not knowing what to expect. The air at the competition was quite welcoming and friendly, however," Charlie said.

"After the competition, there are lab and demonstrations held. They covered topics from neuroanatomy to computational neuroscience. They were probably some of the best things that day."

Based on her positive experience, Charlie encourages other students to consider competing next year.

"It's a great opportunity to learn, and the material has something interesting for everyone — not to mention, it gives you a better understanding of the world around us," she said.

"Neuroscience interests me because it's the root of behaviour and development. Someday, I'd hope to do something relating to neuroscience, especially since there are many branches of it."

As a teacher, Dion credits Charlie's hard work for her accomplishments at the Brain Bee.

"I was so proud that she did so well," she said, "considering we had no idea what the Brain Bee actually was."

At the same time, Dion hopes that more local students will compete next year in the event.

"It can definitely open doors for students and allow them to network with professors and researchers at the U of M," she said. "It is also a good way for students to explore the world of neuroscience and see that there is much more to the field than medicine."

Stonewall Art Group featuring local artist Debbie Stewart

Debbie Stewart remembers her journey of creation beginning when she was a child. When the Saturday comics came in, she would spend time sketching cartoons.

She gravitated toward drawing people at a young age and often drew her family and teachers.

"I've always had an interest in colouring and creating. It always excites me to have an image pop off the paper," said Stewart.

Stewart was drawn to art and creating because it gave her a meaningful way to fill her time.

"I had lots of time on my hands, so I was always looking for ways to keep busy and never liked to sit for too long so that I would pick up a pencil. It was always easy to be able to sketch wherever you were. I was never bored when I had a pencil in my hand," said Stewart.

Stewart's main mediums in her work are charcoal pencils and acrylics.

A new passion for Stewart has been

Stewart creates some of everything in her artwork — pets, people, landscapes and animal portraits.

Her husband is a deer hunter, so she has been learning how to create deer. In the past, she has also dabbled in creating murals.

When her 14-year-old grandson was younger, she created a cartoon-type graphic novel for him.

In the last 10 years, Stewart started putting her work in art shows and selling some pieces here and there.

Currently, the artwork is mostly a hobby for Stewart, as she mainly creates pieces for family and friends. She said she does not sell or put many of her pieces in shows. However, she said she would start doing more commissioned works and shows when

Teulon announces new secondary plan and zoning bylaw

Public open house Monday, April 24

By Autumn Fehr

A new secondary plan and zoning bylaw are in the works for residents of Teulon.

A secondary plan is a policy document that guides a specific area's future development or re-development. Secondary plans must be consistent with their associated development plan. For Teulon, that is the South Interlake Planning District Development Plan. Currently, the policies in the development plan are general, applying to multiple urban-type centres. The new secondary plan will be more specific and focus solely on Teulon.

Teulon is in the process of creating this new plan and, once complete, it will reflect the needs of the municipality and more detailed policies for future development within the town.

It is best practice to review a bylaw at least every five years. Teulon's zoning bylaw was created in 2002 and is out of date. Therefore, the town has decided to update its current zoning bylaw to address current needs and reflect the findings of the new secondary plan and current land-use planning trends.

WSP Canada Inc., a consulting firm with several planning professionals that created the process for the new secondary plan and zoning bylaw, will be leading the project. The project team consists of Breanne Jack from the Province of Manitoba, Eric Shaw, the general manager of the South Interlake Planning District, and the WSP team.

The changes to the zoning bylaw are still to be determined based on stakeholder and public engagement.

Andrew Glassco, CAO of Teulon, said these inputs are a key component of this project.

"Every citizen has a stake in how land is used to ensure that they live in and that future generations inherit healthy, sustainable communities," he

On Monday, April 24, there will be a public open house at the Teulon Rockwood Centennial Centre (14 Main St.) from 7 to 9 p.m. for all residents to give input and ask questions about the project. WSP will facilitate the come-and-go event. A series of posters will be available for the public to review, with several interactive components to obtain community feed-

By participating in the upcoming open house, residents can help shape our community's future, said Glassco.

The new secondary plan policies, zoning bylaw regulations and related maps will be developed based on community feedback.

Glassco said the town anticipates the new secondary plan policies and zoning bylaw regulations to be completed in early 2024.

If you have any questions about the open house, contact Kari Schultz at kari.schulz@wsp.com or 204-259-

COVID infections, hospitalizations in Manitoba; patient numbers increase for MRI scans

By Patricia Barrett

There were 274 new COVID infections reported in the last week of March, according to the provincial government's respiratory surveillance report for the period March 26 to April 1 (reporting Week 13).

The province did not provide a surveillance report for Week 12 (March 19-25). There were 155 new COVID infections reported in Week 11.

Provincial case data are underestimates of the true number of infections as the government restricts access to PCR testing. Rapid antigen tests aren't tracked.

There were 135 new hospitalizations, including 22 admissions to the intensive care unit reported in Week 13. There were 49 new hospitalizations reported in Week 11, including six ICU admissions.

The data are derived from differences in total severe outcomes between the current and the previous report.

The province reported no deaths in Week 13. It reported no deaths in Week 11.

Since March 18, Manitoba's COVID death toll has remained at 2,470, according to the federal government's COVID webpage. Canada's death toll now stands at 52,121 as of April 3.

Wastewater data for Winnipeg and Brandon up to March 28 show sustained COVID activity.

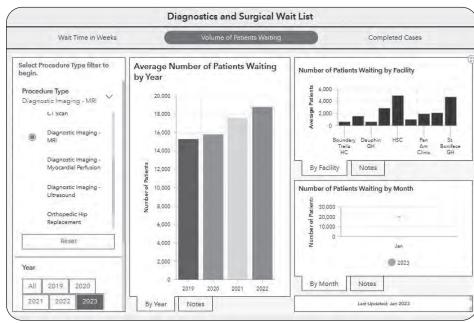

The provincial government no longer lists in its surveillance reports the names of personal care homes and hospitals experiencing COVID outbreaks.

There were six new cases of influenza A and three new cases of influenza B in Week 13, according to the differences in total case data between Week 13 and Week 11. There were also four hospitalizations but no deaths report-

Other health news:

- The World Health Organization's epidemiological update published April 6 reports nearly 3.3 million new COVID infections and over 23,000 new deaths worldwide over the period March 6 to April 2.

The highest numbers of new deaths in the Americas region (North, Central and South America) were reported from the U.S. (7,458, 2.3 new deaths per 100 000), Brazil (963, <1 new death per 100 000) and Canada (593 new deaths, 1.6 new deaths per 100,000).

- The Interlake-Eastern Regional Health Authority is alerting patients that a new phone system has been installed at the Ashern Medical Clinic and there's only one number to dial to book an appointment with a physician: 204-768-3821. The fax number has not changed: 204-768-2862.
- The volume of patients waiting for an MRI scan in Manitoba rose to 20,000 in January 2023, according to the provincial government's online waiting list for diagnostic procedures. At the end of 2022, there were 18,713 patients in the queue for an MRI. The number of people waiting has grown every year since 2019.

- Manitoba health minister Audrey Gordon announced on April 5 that people recovering from hip and knee replacement surgery can access physiotherapy and rehabilitation services from any Manitoba physiotherapy clinic as the government has established an interim billing arrangement.

"The Diagnostic and Surgical Recovery Task Force, and agreements such as this, will help patients access the care they need now as the Manitoba government expands capacity and builds a more resilient public health system for the future," said Gordon in an April 5 news release. "By streamlining billing processes and providing comprehensive support, we're also removing barriers and freeing up health-care providers to focus on delivering care to patients across Manitoba."

The opposition NDP's health-care critic Uzoma Asagwara said in a statement that the government was responsible for cutting physiotherapy and other services, forcing people to pay or go without.

"Brian Pallister and Heather Stefanson cut physiotherapy and occupational therapy, and fired dozens of physiotherapists. Their cuts forced seniors and Manitobans recovering from surgery to pay out of pocket or go without health care. Their choices led to worse health outcomes and higher bills for families. After seven years of health care cuts, no one trusts the PCs now," said Asagwara.

- The NDP announced it will unveil a rural health-care strategy ahead of the provincial election this fall.

NDP leader Wab Kinew made the announcement at the Association of Manitoba Municipalities leaders' forum last week.

"We can't start to fix the damage Brian Pallister and Heather Stefanson did to health care in Manitoba without a dedicated strategy focused on the rural parts of our province," said Kinew. "Our team has common-sense, pragmatic solutions to some of the biggest health challenges in rural communities. We're excited to share it with Manitobans in the coming weeks."

worship with us > FAITH

"If Christ has not been raised, then empty is our preaching; empty, too is your faith." (1Cor 15:14)

For the next 50 days we will be joyfully celebrating the raising of Christ from the dead by the Father. We sing "Alleluia the Lord is Risen," for nothing is more important in the Christian faith than this truth.

C.S. Lewis wrote that there are only two realities when it comes to the resurrection of Christ. If the resurrection did indeed happen, then humanity is given the hope to face this life with joy and peace in our hearts even in the most difficult days. If the resurrection is not true, then we humans are the most pitiable of creatures and preachers had best go and get themselves an honest job! There is no in between.

The reality is that you and I live in a secular world where our current state of life is accepted to be all there is. For the believer, this world is good but it does not have the last word over creation or over us as humans. The believer knows that the resurrection means that our existence simply does not fade into oblivion; instead, we take all that is good in this world (love, mercy and compassion) and carry it into the next.

In the resurrection of Christ, God has been up to something greater than we could have every imagined. God's love for us has already conquered evil and through baptism has allowed us to become heirs of life that springs eternal. As a matter of fact, evil's time is now up! Death. where is your sting? Oh, death, where is your victory?

Are We Dating the Same Guy Manitoba?

Gimli entrepreneur helping women find out

"MORE OFTEN

INVOLVED WITH

MULTIPLE WOMEN

THROUGH ONLINE

DATING SITES."

THAN NOT, GUYS

By Patricia Barrett

With the rise of online dating sites and some of the pitfalls associated with them, women are turning to private social media groups to help them find out whether a man they've just met or have been dating for some time is the real deal or just playing the field.

To that end, a Gimli-based entrepreneur launched an online women-only service that has skyrocketed in popularity in a matter of a few months.

Using her well honed social media skills, Brittany Isfeld launched a Manitoba-wide version of the "Are We Dating the Same Guy" service that has helped women across the globe get the lowdown on whether a potential beau, current boyfriend or husband is doing the dirty on the them via online dating sites.

Isfeld said user numbers on her Facebook group have taken off, with 5,000 women signing up in the first month alone and growing to about 9,000 in the space of a month and a half.

That speaks volumes about the need for such a service.

Call it biological imperative or what you will, but Isfeld said more often than not, guys are getting involved with multiple women through online dating sites.

"They'll have a girlfriend in Winnipeg or elsewhere and have another woman, say in Gimli, and they'll claim they're talking to her or dating her exclusively. Meanwhile, they have a whole other life somewhere else," said Isfeld.

Because the service is Manitoba-wide, Isfeld said it gives women a greater reach in terms of geographic area where men might have established connections.

With the ubiquity of online dating sites and apps, groups aimed at helping women do a little fact-checking on a partner have popped up in major centres from Toronto and New York to London and Paris. With female-only membership, women feel empowered to carry out a bit of sleuthing to discover if their man is scoping out other women, if he's already in a "committed" relationship that he forgot to mention or has left behind a trail of broken exes.

Some of the Are We Dating the Same Guy groups post photos of men to be avoided while others provide screenshots of conversations or details of experiences that might strike an eerily coincidental chord or raise a few red flags.

Isfeld said she has an administrative team of nine women from across Manitoba to help her moderate and manage content on her site as there may be different reasons why women want to join the group and post their stories.

"Those reasons can range from women who are honest and just want to know about a guy they care about to a woman who's on a personal vendetta," said Isfeld. "We try our best to carry out due diligence. We'll check out women who've been accused of screenshotting conversations and sending them to men; the conversations on this group are supposed to be confidential."

As administrators, she said they're careful not to give free rein to posts that could be seriously detrimental to someone's reputation. And there are a "handful" of users on the site they have to keep a close eye on. If she finds out that posts are untruthful, she'll take them down.

Online dating services, through the use of mobile apps or the Internet, help people find romantic partners, and their use has become the norm, especially among young adults. In Canada, the dating services industry as a whole is estimated to be worth about $162 million, according to IBISWorld Canada, which produces research-based industry reports. Online dating took off between 2016 and 2021 and is expected to continue to gain in popularity.

Some online services cater to specific markets, such as people over 40, while others aim to connect only wealthy and good-looking men and women. The dark side of dating sites includes misrepresentation about who a person is, harassment, stalking, scams and sexual abuse.

That's why groups such as Isfeld's are so important for women who think they're being deceived. Her group can help women stave off potential heartache or help them make decisions about whether to continue with a relationship based on what they find out, she said. She has received countless messages from women thanking her for providing the service and sharing with her the outcome of their relationship after seeing comments from different women about a man in question.

"I'm not happy that marriages have ended, but I'm happy that women have obtained the information they needed to get the strength to leave a bad relationship," said Isfeld. "I've heard from women who are very thankful for this group because it saved them from going on a date with someone about whom they heard not very nice stories — and from more than one woman."

If required, she said referrals are made to specialized agencies or counsellors that assist women going through a difficult time.

Isfeld said some people have misunderstood her intention with regard to the Facebook group, erroneously claiming that she and the women who use the service are against men. Some men have threatened to sue her or have launched nasty personal attacks via her other social media platforms. But the service is "making such a difference in so many women's lives."

There is a vetting process to undergo for those wanting to join the group. They must be a woman, first and foremost, and be over 18. Their existing Facebook sites have to be older than one year and must have a name and photo.

Posts are also vetted. Those that meet a particular standard are approved by the administrative team.

As a social media micro-influencer, Brittany Isfeld has grown her audience to over 100,000 followers across multiple platforms. With the rise of online dating sites and some of the hazards associated with them, Isfeld saw a need for a service where women could openly discuss their dating experiences.

In addition, Facebook itself has an administrative assistance feature that helps Isfeld and her team weed out posts that use bad language or bully others. Facebook will flag those posts.

"We try to keep conversations as civil as we can," said Isfeld. "You can't post someone's last name or place of work. People try to do that, but we get rid of those posts as soon as possible. I'm getting several requests every day from people wanting to join, but, luckily, we have enough members on top of things; we get a lot of people reporting questionable posts to us."

Isfeld said she has reached out to Are We Dating the Same Guy groups in Vancouver and Toronto, which have tens of thousands of members, to learn more about how their administrators handle certain situations.

"There were a lot of angles we didn't know about when we went into this, but we're trying to navigate them to make it as safe as possible for everyone," she said.

The Facebook group will be part of Isfeld's consulting company, which offers social media marketing strategies, tourism development (including winter tourism) and ice fishing experiences. With an educational and career background in economic development and tourism, Isfeld can help clients achieve their business goals. As a social media micro-influencer, she has grown her audience to over 100,000 followers across multiple platforms.

A new apartment building is on the road to making history in Stonewall.

The new building, called The Haven, will be located in the southwest quadrant of town, at the entrance to the Quarry Ridge Park subdivision.

Foster Ag keeping customers in the know with launch of Shop Talk newsletter

By Patricia Barrett

Foster Ag Services launched a newsletter last week to keep farmers up to date on agricultural issues and support them through the changing sea-

The newsletter, titled Shop Talk, will be released every month and provide industry insights and data.

Foster Ag agronomist Bailey Sigvaldason said the company felt there was a need to enhance its communication with farmers and find a more efficient way of sharing data. After a brainstorming session, staff came up with the idea of a newsletter.

"We're committed to providing our growers with lots of knowledge whether it's through variety plot work or attending supplier meetings or the thousands of acres we walk locally," said Sigvaldason. "To try to communicate all that information and data we get isn't always easy, so we were looking for a way to modernize how we share this data and do a better job of distributing it to our customers."

The family-owned agricultural services company northwest of Arborg provides farmers with services such as soil testing, weed, insect and disease field-scouting, custom spraying and seed and chemical products.

Sigvaldason said the articles in the newsletter will be written by various members of staff who have different specialties and interests and will feature information about plant nutrition, different seed types that are suited to the area, specific products the company is highlighting and the company's trial and plot data.

"The goal of the newsletter is to have each month's edition reflect upcoming issues farmers could be facing in the next three to four weeks," said Sigvaldason. "We want to prepare them with product information they might need for crop health, maybe some seasonal issues to watch for like insect issues or if there are environmental stressors, and what to watch out for and who to contact. We're trying to set our customers up for success for the next month ahead."

Sigvaldason said although it didn't look like spring with the Colorado low and cool temperatures across much of the province last week, the inaugural newsletter issue leaps into spring and focuses on seeding issues.

One article covers macronutrients such as nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and sulfur and the roles they play in plant growth. Other articles talk about seedling diseases and what growers should look for, why farmers should grow forage seeds — the Interlake is known around the world for producing high quality forage seed and pre-seed herbicides to help farmers "set their crops up for success," she said.

Also included in the newsletter are important dates and reminders (e.g., crop insurance seedling deadline) and a Q & A based on questions the company has received.

"We talk to our customers every day all season long and this newsletter is a way to amalgamate all that information about what we're seeing in the fields. We want to make sure everyone has access to that data," said Sigvaldason. "If we're seeing an insect or disease outbreak near Fisher Branch, for example, we'll put that in the newsletter so that everyone else in the area can be aware of it be and prepare for what might come."

The newsletter will be delivered via email around the first of the month,

Live wrestling in Balmoral April 29

By Brian Bowman

The Balmoral Recreation Centre will be hosting some high-flying wrestling action on April 29.

The event, called the Bash in Balmoral, will act as a fundraiser for the Recreation Centre.

"Myself and Travis Williams have been wrestling fans for a long time," said Don Slater, who came up with the idea to host the fundraiser along with Williams. "We noticed that a local wrestling promotion, CWE, tours around Manitoba and thought we would take our family. We went to a couple of CWE events around the Interlake. Our kids really enjoyed the live-wrestling event."

The idea of hosting a wrestling event in Balmoral is a unique one.

"Travis and I thought this would be a great opportunity as a fundraiser for the Balmoral Rec Centre" Slater said. "It's fun entertainment for all ages, and something different and unique. This has never happened in Balmoral that we can remember. The support for this event throughout the community and surrounding area has been amazing. Everyone is very excited for this."

The Balmoral Recreation Centre is a big part of the community.

"We have hockey, ringette, curling, baseball and soccer here throughout the year," Slater noted. "We have a restaurant with dine in and take out and we have many family events/fundraisers that happen here. We need to support our rec centre as much as we can to keep it running for our families and the future of our community. This is just one way we thought we could help out, bring families together, and have an evening of fun, live-action wrestling entertainment."

Doors open for the event at 3 p.m. and the bell rings at 4 p.m.

Those in attendance are asked to bring their own chair

Tickets prices for adults are $15 while kids aged six to 18 get in for $10. Youngsters five and under get in free.

Argyle museum receives $25,000 in provincial funding

The local Argyle museum is making tracks towards setting up its permanent home.

Settlers, Rails and Trails received a $25,000 small capital grant through the provincial government's Arts, Culture, Sport in Community Fund.

These provincial grants cover between 50 and 100 per cent of eligible expenses for projects that support the development and renewal of the facilities and spaces needed for arts, culture and sport programming and activities.

"We will be using the $25,000 in provincial funding, with an additional $5,000 coming from Community Futures East Interlake, to install hydro and water services to our museum's 12-acre park property. This is very important as we currently have no services on site," said president and executive director Shayne Campbell.

"Hydro will be important for lighting, security, our contractors and volunteers when they are working at the park. Water is important for all of our trees, plants and fire protection. As the museum grows, and we add more buildings and infrastructure, these essential services will be required for visitors, volunteers, employees and tradespersons."

Campbell also draws attention to some exciting events coming up on the museum's calendar.

"On Saturday, June 3, Manitoba's lieutenant governor will be visiting our museum during Argyle Day celebrations. Activities are currently being planned, with more information closer to the date," he said.

"This is an incredibly important event as King Charles III's representative in Manitoba, the lieutenant governor, will be conducting a tree planting ceremony. These are the museum's Royal trees, which were initially installed for the late Queen Elizabeth II's 2022 Jubilee celebration."

This event is particularly timely since two museum directors — Shayne Campbell and Charlie Amy - were recently honoured with the Oueen Elizabeth II volunteer medal.

Museum volunteers have also been working hard over the last several years to create the newest exhibition, which will open July 15.

"The Manitoba Brick and Block Exhibition tells the masonry heritage of our province. We are the only museum in Manitoba with such a comprehensive permanent collection," Campbell said.

"This exhibit will showcase bricks, tools, photos and histories from around 70 locations and 196 manufacturing companies based in Manitoba between 1860 and 1990."

Settlers, Rails and Trails is currently located in the lower level of Argyle Community Centre on Highway 322.

New book by Susie Schwartz helps you get the best medical care

Staff

At nine years old, Susie Schwartz (our "Expert Patient Here to Help" correspondent) was diagnosed with Type 1 diabetes after being rushed to the Winnipeg Children's Hospital and almost dying. She's been collecting illness ever since: retinopathy, gastroparesis, fibromyalgia and myalgic encephalomyelitis, to name the highlights.

Schwartz is no stranger to needles, blood tests or doctor's appointments — all too numerous to count. Susie had to learn to self-advocate very early to get the proper tests and diagnoses and be truly seen by her doctors.

She regularly finds herself in conversation with people who are having health challenges and feels like the medical system is failing them. They feel rushed at appointments, not truly heard or understood, or that what the doctor says goes. They feel like a number and not a person.

"It doesn't have to be this way," Schwartz said.

When asked her greatest lesson learned from all her years of illness, she said, "Apart from learning that life is all things — fun, hard, beautiful and scary — my time in the health-care systems has taught me it's possible to have great relationships with doctors and medical staff and that this makes a difference in the care I receive."

Schwartz, an avid writer, decided to put what she learned to print. So, her book, Help the Doctor Help You – 31 Secrets and Tips for Self-Advocacy to Get the BEST from Your Appointments, was born

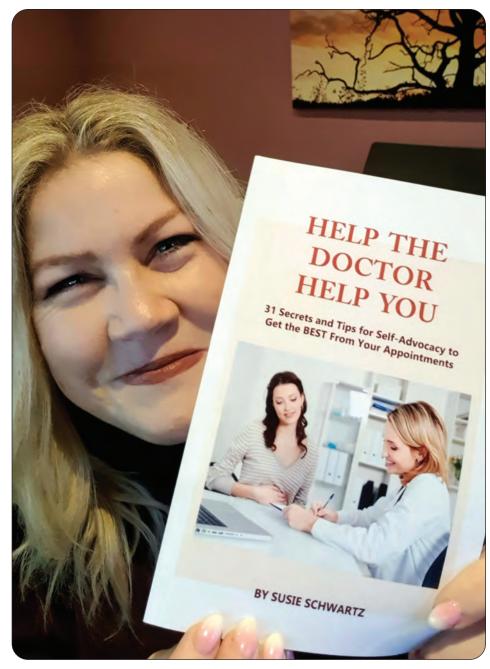

Angela Corbin of Stonewall said, "I read Help the Doctor and absolutely love it. As someone who has just gone through two years of having to fight for what I knew was right for my health, this book would've been quite helpful had I had it in my hands a couple of years ago!"

In Help the Doctor Help You, you'll find simple but powerful tips that will impact your care. Tips for attending an appointment prepared, treating the doctor as a person and not just a white coat, and learning to complain wisely are examples of what you'll learn. Schwartz has also woven stories from her experience, showing the tips in action.

Barbara Lucas, formerly of Stone-wall and an emergency room nurse said, "In this book, Susie uses her personal experience and wit to pass along clear, concise information on how to get the most out of any health-care interaction. She knows how to turn an often tedious topic into an enjoyable and, dare I say, fun read."

Schwartz is from Stonewall and currently lives in the U.K..

On March 31, the term was up for the Goodwin Lodge uncertified recreation staff. Their term started in October 2020 and was only supposed to be for a short time, but because of the pandemic it fortunately kept getting extended.

Over the last three years during the COVID-19 pandemic, these people played massive roles at the lodge. The staff assisted with screening visitors at the doors, POD visits and Facetimes, which became very popular to stay connected when families couldn't visit in person. In addition, the staff spent time with residents with oneon-ones and helped with programs.

These staff members were the face of the recreation department. They ensured all families and residents stayed safe during visits by teaching proper hand hygiene. They worked days, evenings and weekends including holidays, spending a lot of time doing one-on-ones with residents, which made a significant impact on the residents' mental health and kept them stimulated with programs.

Crystal Bergeron, recreation coordinator from Goodwin Lodge, said they had hoped it would be extended again, but it wasn't. She said the staff will be missed by all, but by the residents that they helped over the years during the winter can trap nasty odours in the cabin. As you welcome warmer weather, it's time to deodorize your vehicle. Here are four tips.

Spring car maintenance checklist READY FOR SUMMER? 4 car deodorizing tips

1. Vacuum your car from top to bottom, including under the floor mats, in the trunk and between the seats. Use the upholstery attachment to rid your vehicle of smelly dirt and debris in hard-to-reach areas.

2. Vinegar is a natural deodorparts water and white vinegar.

How to clean your car's undercarriage

Your car's undercarriage accumulates dirt, debris and road salt. It also periodically gets wet from rain, mud and snow, leading to rust. Spring is a great time to give the undercarriage a good cleaning. Here's how to do it.

- 1. Lift the vehicle. Lifting your car with a jack makes accessing every part of the undercarriage easier. Skip this step if you have a lifted truck.
- 2. Remove the tires. This is an optional step, but it allows you to move more freely around the vehicle and get into all the nooks and crannies.
- 3. Rinse the undercarriage. Wash the undercarriage section by section using a pressure washer or garden hose with a spray attachment. Start from the front, moving toward the back. Hold the spray attachment or pressure washer wand at a 45-degree angle for the best cleaning action.
- 4. Clean stubborn areas with a degreaser. To get rid of persistent dirt and debris, spray degreaser on the undercarriage and let it sit for 20 minutes. Scrub with a brush and then rinse the surface.
- 5. Dry the undercarriage. Rust can develop if moisture is left behind on the metal. Dry every part of the undercarriage with old towels.
- 6. Apply a protectant. This helps protect the metal of the undercarriage against damage. It'll also keep it cleaner for longer.

If you don't feel confident washing your car's undercarriage, look for a local car wash that offers the service.

izer. Make a mixture of equal Then, spritz the mixture on your car's dashboard, cupholders, seats and carpets. Let the solution sit for 30 minutes, then wipe it away with a clean, damp rag.

> 3. Baking soda lifts unpleasant scents. For example, sprinkle some baking soda on your vehicle's carpet or upholstery if you've spilled something on your vehicle's carpet or upholstery. Rub the baking soda into the area and leave it for a few hours. Then, vacuum it up.

> 4. Charcoal absorbs impurities and nasty smells. That's why it's commonly used in air and water filters. Pick up a charcoal briquette, like the ones used for grilling, at a local store. Leave the briquette in your car for a few days. Charcoal is highly porous and absorbs any nasty odours floating in the air.

Lastly, spray down your car vents with a specialized cleaner. Over time, your car's vents build up dirt and debris that can cause an unpleasant smell. If any bad smells persist, take your car to a cleaning professional.

Stony Mountain parents deliver baby at home

By Jennifer McFee

A Stony Mountain baby brought smiles to the faces of many with her glory-filled entry to the world.

Slava Stefania Deprez made her grand entry on March 14 in a surprising way, giving her parents Daria Lukie and Chad Deprez a captivating story to share.

The duo was prepared for a long birth experience, following a 48-hour labour with their firstborn daughter Luka two years ago.

Baby Slava, however, had a different

Around 9 p.m. on March 13, Daria began to experience mild cramping, but she was convinced it was nothing urgent. An hour later, she realized that she was likely in labour. She took a bath, listened to music and concentrated on breathing through her contractions. Meanwhile, Chad tried to get some rest next to the tub.

At about 1 a.m., Daria went to lie down in bed. All the while, her contractions continued to get stronger. They soon decided to call Chad's mom, Laurie Deprez, to come over and take care of Luka while they headed to the hospital.

But they didn't make it that far. In fact, they didn't make it out of the bedroom before things progressed rapidly.

"The second he hung up, my water breaks and I can feel pressure. I told Chad to call 911 and he looked at me in full disbelief," Daria said.

"The 911 call operator was helping to talk Chad through everything. She said 'You're having this baby at home.' She tells him to get clean towels and everything else he needs to collect. Chad gets me up on the bed and his mom arrives. He yells at her that the baby's coming."

Laurie heads upstairs and realizes she's no longer there to take care of Luka but to help with the delivery instead.

"She springs into action too. Once Chad's mom was there, we were a little more at ease. It was so wonderful having my mother-in-law at my delivery," Daria said.

"The 911 call operator said we need a clean shoelace or shoestring of some sort because you're going to need to tie the umbilical cord. She looks at Chad and yanks the string out of her hoodie."

At this point, Daria is holding the baby in, trying to wait for the paramedics to arrive.

"The 911 call operator said 'You cannot hold this baby in. You have to have the baby.' I release and push — and suddenly there's the head," Daria said.

"The operator was like, 'Now you have to push out the body." She told Chad the body would be very slippery so make sure he's prepared for it. So I push out the body and Chad's now holding our daughter. His mom's ready with the clean blankets and towels. She's completely silent and purple, which is normal but we don't know that because none of us have ever delivered babies before. The cord was wrapped like a lei around her."

Laurie moved the cord and began to rub Baby Slava's back.

"The baby started crying and all of us started breathing fresh air. The 911 operator told us we needed to tie the string around the cord in three minutes to allow for delayed clamping — and the paramedics arrived right at that time. They came running up the stairs, clamped the cord and took over," Daria said.

"They were checking baby's vitals, checking mine, making sure everything's good. They knew exactly what to do. The paramedics were just the most wonderful. The 911 operator hung up when the paramedics got there, but we'd like to try to track her down too. She has no idea how much impact she had on our lives."

Daria and Baby Slava headed to Selkirk's hospital in separate ambulances. While she was being taken out on a stretcher, Daria stuffed

"We named our daughter Slava Stefania. Stefania was the name of my baba — and that's exactly what my baba would have done is stuff some toonies in their pockets. My baba came to Canada as a Ukrainian refugee. She was fierce, brave, strong, selfless and kind — all qualities Slava will inevitably inherit," Daria said.

our daughter's name to be Ukrainian and meaningful. With the war going on in Ukraine, it's more important than ever to celebrate and uphold Ukrainian culture and traditions. What better way than to name someone so meaningful in Ukrainian?"

The healthy baby girl was born on her due date of March 14, weighing 6 pounds, 12 ounces, and measuring 18.5 inches long.

"We stayed at the Selkirk hospital for 24 hours, and everyone was just so amazing there too," Daria said.

"They told us at the hospital that the birth registration has to indicate the nearest landmark from where the baby was born, so we had to put our house address as the baby's birthplace. She's probably one of the few babies born in Stony Mountain."

For Chad, he's still a bit awestruck that he delivered his own daughter.

"From the time we called my mom, she was born 16 minutes later. That is how fast everything happened. Luckily, we stayed home. Otherwise, we'd be on the highway somewhere at 1:30 in the morning with nothing open. I just had to listen to the 911 operator and do everything that she told me to. She was unbelievable. She directed us and did all the thinking. We just had to act," he said.

"It's a really cool story now that everything worked out well — and if anyone knows Daria and I, we love telling a good story. At the same time, it wasn't a story that we were looking to tell. I never had it on my bucket list to deliver a baby, but I crossed it off anvwav."

"Luka slept through the whole thing. She has been the most maternal big sister. She jumped right into it and she's only two years old," Daria said.

"Slava has never been without a blanket or a stuffy because Luka comes over immediately. She's been an amazing big sister so far."

Daria reflects that Slava's four-hour delivery couldn't have gone better, although she would have preferred to be in the hospital.

"I'm still wrapping my head around the fact that Chad delivered the baby. Her birth was most glorious," Daria

Crime on the upswing in February, RCMP deter bootlegging on rural roads, Hwy. 6

Bv Patricia Barrett

Drugs, property crime and other offences in the RCMP's east district, which includes the Interlake, significantly increased in February compared to the same period last year, according to newly released RCMP crime statistics.

The data, released March 28, compare crimes committed in February 2023 with those committed in February 2022 in areas such as drug enforcement, crimes against the person and crimes against property.

The Manitoba RCMP has three districts: east, west and north. The east district includes communities such as Arborg, Ashern, Fisher Branch, Gimli, Lundar, Peguis, Selkirk and Stonewall in the Interlake, as well as Beausejour, Berens River, Falcon Beach, Headingley, Morris, Oakbank, Sprague, Steinbach and the Winnipeg Airport.

Overall, calls for RCMP service in the east district increased by 17 per cent, from 4,597 in February 2022 to 5,527 in February 2023.

Drug enforcement saw a significant increase of 160 per cent (from 15 in February 2022 to 39 in February 2023). Crimes Against the Person, which includes robbery, extortion, harassment, threats and assaults, jumped by 16 per cent (from 351 in February 2022 to 407 in February 2023). And Crimes Against Property, which include arson, break and enter, and fraud, increased by 12 per cent (615 in February 2022 to 690 in February 2023).

RCMP stop a vehicle on a rural highway during a check stop.

The RCMP's February report does not break down statistics for specific crimes as previous reports have done.

There were three fatal motor vehicle collisions and two serious collisions in the east district in February 2023. There were three and three, respectively in February 2022.

Other RCMP news:

RCMP seized a significant amount of alcohol along northern routes in March during check stops to deter bootlegging, or the illegal distribution of alcohol.

Over a three-day period (March 10-12), RCMP from the north district patrolled winter roads to "disrupt and deter" the bootlegging of alcohol and other contraband goods from entering northern communities.

Officers from Wabowden, Cross Lake and Norway House, along with the North District Crime Reduction Enforcement Support Team (CREST), Traffic Services and the Roving Traffic Unit, conducted patrols along Highway 6, Highway 373 and winter roads leading to Island Lake, God's Lake Narrows and their associated communities.

"The initiative led to the significant seizure of liquor, including 26 bottles from one vehicle," states a March 28 RCMP news release. "Also, 75 tickets were issued for various Highway Traffic Act offences, 4 Warrants of Arrest were executed, 1 driver charged with Impaired Driving and 1 person charged with Trafficking under the Cannabis Act."

The service said it will continue to work with First Nation communities that have enacted bylaws to prohibit the sale and possession of alcohol and provide enforcement in response to requests from community leadership.

Bustard breaks Canadian U13 barebow record

By Brian Bowman

Stonewall's Tiauna Bustard first picked up a bow and arrow just over a year ago.

There's no question that she is a very fast learner.

The first medal she ever received was a bronze at her first competition at the First Flight Matchplay in February 2023.

"I was pretty nervous because I had to go against compound, which is a totally different bow than me," Bustard said Monday afternoon. "I was pretty proud of my place."

She won gold at the 2023 Archery Manitoba Provincial Indoor Target Championships on March

In early March, Bustard competed at the Canadian Championships, placing first while breaking a Canadian record in the U13 Woman barebow.

"It's pretty cool," Bustard said. "I'm really proud."

She also has won gold for Regional Indoor Championship (this is across Canada on March 4). She competed in the U11 barebow category.

She is currently waiting for another gold medal for ranking first in the Canada wide "mail match."

Quite the fantastic season, wouldn't you say?

"I'm really proud of myself," said Bustard. "It's definitely something I wasn't expecting.'

Bustard said archery is a challenging sport to learn, but she picked it up quickly.

"I'm a fast learner so I guess I pick it up faster than other people," said the 11-year-old, who trains out of Silver Heights. "It's a lot about technique and skill. It's also a lot about focusing."

Next up is the outdoor season. Bustard is looking forward to that, and she really enjoys archery.

"It's a really fun sport. I really enjoy it," she said. "I like the community. With archery, you gain a whole new family and friends that you never had and you really get to relate with them. Whenever you go to a competition, there's always people saying hi to you and talking to you and having a conversation."

Hagen recently headed south to Atlanta for softball

While Manitobans were braving the cold and snow here in March, Olivia Hagen was enjoying the nice weather in Atlanta.

Stonewall's Hagen plays softball for RSDA at the Regional Skill Development Academy, which is put on by Softball Manitoba.

She was part of the 14U team that competed at the PGF March Madness tournament. Ricki Frost-Hunt, also from Stonewall, was down in Atlanta as one of the coaches.

"It was really fun and it was warm," said Hagen, who played third base down in Atlanta.

"It was very neat, a very cool experience," added Hagen's father, Taylor. "It was a lot of fun."

The Atlanta tournament attracted 48 teams and Hagen's squad was the only Canadian one. Most teams were from Georgia but others came from North Carolina, South Carolina and a couple from Tennessee.

"The teams were good but it wasn't super different from here," Olivia said. "But you could just tell that we hadn't been on the diamond for six months. It was good, though."

The experience of playing against American teams should help Hagen and her teammates as they prepare for their seasons here in Manitoba.

"Getting on the diamonds earlier (will help) and it won't be as much of a difference transitioning into playing softball," she said, adding her team was able to visit a huge aquarium while in Atlanta.

Hagen played softball last summer for the Interlake Phillies. She will be with the Phillies again this year but she'll move up to the U15 age group. With Interlake, she plays third base and pitches.

Broadbent flying high in freestyle skiing

Leven Broadbent competed at the Canadian Jr Nationals Freestyle Ski Competition held at Canada Olympic Park (now called Winsport) in Calgary recently.

He performed extremely well at his first competition. More importantly, he had a ton of fun.

"It was a lot of fun seeing people my age doing the same thing and even better," said the 12-year-old Broadbent, who trains at Springhill and Asessippi here in Manitoba. "I got to meet a ton of people."

Stonewall's Broadbent was one of just four Manitoba athletes at nationals.

"It was pretty cool. It took a lot of effort to get there," he said. (During) the winter (I practise) three to four times a week.'

Broadbent loves the feeling of being airborne while spinning. He started skiing when he was about four or five years old.

There were over 100 competitors from all over the country at the Jr Nationals, including Yukon, Nova Scotia, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia in attendance in four age categories.

team and then competed in under 14s in three events: Halfpipe (biggest Halfpipe in Canada with 22 feet walls), Slopestyle and Big Air.

Broadbent came ninth in half pipe, 12th in Slopestyle, and the wind caused him to struggle in the big air, placing 14th.

"He had a really good time doing it," said Broadbent's father, Gavin. "That was the main thing. He kind of came in the middle of the pack, which, for

St. Anne takes 1-0 series lead in provincial Senior 'A' championship

In the first game of the best-of-three provincial Senior "A" championship series, the SEMHL champion Ste. Anne Aces, whose roster includes former Stonewall Jets' captain and Balmoral product Brett Meilleur, came back from an early two-goal deficit to beat the THHL champion Miniota/Elkhorn C-Hawks 3-2 at East End Arena last Saturday.

The C-Hawks jumped out to an early lead on goals from Curtis Gardham and Taylor Sanheim before the game was four minutes old. The Aces' Owen Blocker made it a one-goal game a short time later and it was 2-1 C-Hawks after one period.

Blocker tied it up three-and-a-half minutes into the second with his second of the game. Keith Grondin scored the eventual-game winner midway through the second period and, with a scoreless third, the Aces are one win away from a provincial championship.

AP Steve Christie turned away 38 shots for the Aces while his counterpart in the C-Hawks net, Cory Gardham, stopped 27 in a losing cause. Ste. Anne took five of nine minors called in the contest.
