Dreams do come true

By Jo-Anne Procter

Making wishes come true - one ride at a time.

The 33rd annual Ride for a Child's Wish will continue to help grant wishes after raising close to $57,000 at this year's event thanks to 67 trail riders, seven wagons, 21 motorcycles, 532 dinner guests, many volunteers and generous donators on Aug. 26.

For over three decades, Silver and her husband, Gary Peltier, have made dreams come true for children with critical illnesses. Through their incredible efforts and the Ride for a Child's Wish fundraiser they host at their farm south of Woodlands, they have granted wishes to 160 children to date and raised over $1.6 million.

The event brings people together for the popular 12-mile trail ride, 355-mile motorcycle ride and dinner, with one goal in mind: raising funds for the Make-A-Wish Foundation.

Silver and Gary's unwavering commitment to this cause has touched countless lives. They understand that granting these wishes provides moments of joy to families and hope and strength during difficult times. Each wish granted is a moment that brings smiles, laughter, and happiness to children facing unimaginable challenges. It allows them to forget about hospitals and treatments and enjoy being kids again.

Nine-year-old Wish recipient Reeve Cahoon and his family took part in the event festivities and had an opportunity to thank everyone for their generosity.

In 2017, Reeve was granted a wish. He wished his family could continue camping, and since then, they have been making lifelong memories, stepping away from reality and enjoying time on the beach, having bonfires and enjoying late nights.

Reeve's journey has been filled with challenges from a very young age. At just two weeks old, he was diagnosed with Sturge-Weber Syndrome, a condition that would significantly impact his life. By the time he reached four months old, an MRI revealed that the entire right side of his brain was atrophying, leading to life-threatening seizures.

But Reeve's resilience knows no bounds. He continues to fight bravely despite enduring glaucoma and undergoing multiple eye surgeries starting at just four months old. He has already undergone three major brain surgeries and is preparing for another one this fall.

In addition to these medical hurdles, Reeve also carries the diagnosis of Hemiplegic cerebral palsy post-surgery. This means that he faces unique challenges in mobility and coordination.

Throughout it all, Reeve and his family have spent countless months living in hospitals as they navigate his complex medical needs.

Reeve's story serves as a reminder of the strength within us and the power of granting wishes to children facing critical illnesses. Events like Ride for a Child's Wish make a difference in their lives and bring much-needed joy amidst challenging times.

"This wish would not be possible without the kindness and generosity of from all of you," his mom Ashley said. "It means the world to families like ours and you really make a difference with what you are doing."

The event is led by volunteers, with Silver and Gary Peltier at the helm and their dedicated committee; they work tirelessly to make a difference in these children's lives.

The kitchen crew, led by Bob Thiessen for the past 25 years, worked tirelessly to ensure that every person attending the fundraiser had a satisfying meal and that every detail was carefully planned and executed.

Food donations came from Itzke River Farm, which donated 18 cases of corn and 25 heads of cabbage for coleslaw, and four market-sized hogs were donated by Penner Farms, Danny's Whole Hog, and Norquay Colony. Exceldor Cooperative stepped up with a donation of 941 pieces of chicken; New Haven and Rock Lake Hutterite Colonies provided homemade buns; Jeffries Bros., from Portage la Prairie, generously donated 100 pounds of carrots, BJ Packers provided bacon for baked beans, while Western Harvest supplied 100 pounds of beans. Marketplace in Stonewall generously donated 15 pounds of butter and Rick Davison from Carberry graciously donated all the potatoes. Annabelle and Dominique Versavel provided a smoked brisket lunch for the riders and Prairie West Ice Cream donated dessert.

As always the generosity of the community was on full display at the fundraiser. Not only did riders make monetary donations but Warren Fuels hosted a pancake breakfast at the Domo Gas Bar for bikers and raised an additional $269. At the same time, Cheryl Tscetter and Tayvia McRae sold lemonade and contributed $34.34 to the cause. The Miami Beach Owners and Campers Association presented Peltiers with a cheque for

The Peltiers are incredibly grateful to local businesses and individuals who have been truly remarkable.

Silver extends, "A big thank you to the volunteers, before, during and after the Wish Ride. Especially Wally (oldest rider 83) and Linda (highest pledge) Finnbogason, and Debbie Began, (2nd highest pledge) who collects over 85 per cent of the auction items. Over 100 variety auction prizes were donated as well as a buggy, a round pen and a two-year-old registered paint."

Children's entertainment included wagon rides, face painting, a bouncy castle and inflatable slide and a visit from Disney princesses. Nick Johnson originally from Niverville entertained during supper while JR Charron and his band, also from Niverville capped off the evening with a packed dance

In the spirit of making a difference in the lives of children, there are always opportunities to get involved. Contact Silver at 204-461-0640 or email silverpeltier@gmail.com if you're interested in making a donation and/ or lending a helping hand. Every contribution can have a profound impact on these brave young souls.

Next year, the event will be held on Aug. 24, 2024.

Former Past the Perimeter frontman flies solo in latest release

Bv Autumn Fehr

Before he was 20-years-old, Derek Peters realized he had a passion for music and wanted to pursue it as a career — his revelation resulted in the creation of Past the Perimeter, which was born at a backyard party with a group of friends.

"The only intention was to play for that party, and it spiraled out into becoming what everybody knows as Past the Perimeter," said Peters, who went on to spend 14 years with the band before it dissolved amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

"During the pandemic, we didn't play at all, and we didn't jam or interact musically with one another," Peters said. "Past the Perimeter kind of started taking a back seat."

When the band broke up, Peters knew he had to keep going with music — what he had always known and loved from his young adult years.

The process of putting out his first solo release began during pandemic-induce lock downs when he had extra time on his hands. Peters got together with his songwriter friends and started experimenting with his sound.

Since heading out on his own, he has hit the ground running. He opened for Doc Walker in Stonewall for a grad fundraiser on his first gig; His second gig saw him open for Snake Oil on the main stage at Quarry Days.

Last week, he released his first single as a solo artist.

"What's Left of the Night," a country song with a spin of rock edge (written by Peters, Evan Taplin, Dave Wasyliw, and Murray Pulver) was released on Aug. 21. A music video followed a few days later.

"I needed to keep going with music, so I took a chance releasing this single. I hope everyone likes it, and I can continue to do that," he said.

"Nothing was really fitting, and when it came time to start recording, we hit the writing studio again and tried getting something going, but we ended up coming back to the song that we had actually written probably close to two years ago now."

Peters has modest goals as he moves forward with his solo career. He plans to see how people receive the single. In the future, he hopes to expand his career and perform in more shows.

"I've been getting a lot of love from the music video that was released... I've been seeing a lot of good numbers on Spotify and the streaming platforms," he said.

Peters loves being a part of songwriter events and performing in general. He'd like to raise enough money to release another song, he said.

"Any show is a great show where you can hone your skills and interact with the crowd. The crowd interaction is actually the biggest part for me, although I'm pretty introverted myself in my personal life, when I'm on stage I'm kind of a different person, so you definitely crave that crowd interaction when its something you are used to," he said.

Peters's single is out everywhere, and his music video is streaming on YouTube.

Flooded Armstrong cattle producers continue to be ignored

By Patricia Barrett

Armstrong cattle producers who've been trying for decades to get the provincial government to fix its drainage infrastructure and get the municipality to address flooding over one of its roads have once again had their pleas for help ignored.

Evita Kalski said her family cattle farm has been flooding since the 1960s after the provincial government built the Fish Lake Drain, a major drain that carries water east to Lake Winnipeg. The drain has rendered acres of her family's land unusable. In 2021 she estimated that they lost 70 per cent of their land.

The Kalskis, like many agricultural producers in the Interlake experiencing flooding from provincially owned drainage infrastructure, have been burdened with flooding for decades while the province and municipality argue about whose responsibility it is to solve the issues.

The Rural Municipality of Armstrong has not yet addressed the water that comes over its municipal road and floods the Kalskis' land, said Evita Kalski.

She said she recently contacted the province and spoke with two drainage officers. One of the officers told her he was busy elsewhere but would get back to her. She also met with municipal council in June to ask it to consider building a ditch on the south side of Road 118 to alleviate the flooding of her land.

"They have not done one iota of anything to address the flooding," said Kalski. "For the last four weekends, every time I go down road 118, the Fish Lake Drain is right up to the top of the road. It's soaking into the gravel. With a bit of wind or rain, it will come across the road."

Kalski said it's been a relatively dry year, but despite that the water in the provincial drain is "never low enough" to funnel away water from other drains that connect to it.

The federal government's July 31

Canadian Drought Monitor shows the Interlake experiencing a moderate drought, with much of southern and central Manitoba in either a moderate or severe drought.

"I can see how this could happen during wet years when we have water everywhere, running all over the place," said Kalski. "But there's not that much water this year. Some of the dugouts are dry."

Kalski said she asked council at its June 13 meeting for some idea of what it's "going to do about the water" coming over its road, which can lead to the deterioration of the road, but council would not give her an answer.

"I gave them the whole spiel again about what's happening to us. I said on Road 118, the north side is Fish Lake Drain. On the south side of the road there's nothing; there isn't even a ditch beside the road. The water just runs right onto our land, our pastureland" she said. "I asked council, 'Is there any way you can put in a ditch on the south side of the road and give the water a little more space to run somewhere?' The answer I got from the reeve is they weren't there to discuss anything with me; they were just there to hear what I had to say. I just want an answer. They don't have to do it today or tomorrow, but is it on a list where we're going to see something?"

She said she has phoned the RM every week for the past month or so to report the water coming up against the municipality's road, eating into the gravel, and when it also crossed the road.

In addition to the flooding issue, Kalski said the RM pushed trees against her fence line blocking access to their land.

"In the winter the RM pushed a bunch of snow with the bulldozer and pushed a bunch of trees across our fence line. They broke fence posts and Manitoba 🐆 fish lake drain manitoba Show search results for fish. 118N 24-20-1E1 the threw the trees against the barbed wire," she said. "I needed to get that fixed so we could put our cattle on the pasture in the spring.'

The RM had told her to send the office an invoice and it would compensate her for the damage, she said, but it hasn't.

"When I went to the [June] meeting I asked, 'What about the invoice?'" she said. "And they said, 'We're going to push this to the next meeting.

In council's June meeting minutes, Kalski said they wrote that "no new information was given about snow being pushed on the fence, something like that. It was trees that did the damage. They refuse to pay us. One of the councillors said the trees were cleared off but the trees are still lying there. I have photos. Someone has to go in there with a bucket and clean it out."

The Tribune sent an email to the RM of Armstrong's reeve, chief administrative officer and assistant chief administrative officer for comment on the flooding situation and the trees but did not get a response.

The Tribune also contacted the provincial government. A communications representative said: "Due to the election blackout, you will need to ask media@pcmanitoba.com your question." The Tribune forwarded its request to the pcmanitoba email address but did not get a response.

COVID on the rise in Manitoba, first West Nile case confirmed

By Patricia Barrett

With new COVID variants picking up steam across the globe, Manitoba is experiencing an increase in COVID infections and hospitalizations.

There were 80 new COVID infections detected from Aug. 20-26, according to the provincial government's respiratory surveillance report for Week 34.

"The number of reported cases and number of COVID-19 hospital admissions increased compared with the previous week," states the report.

Twenty-two people with COVID were hospitalized in Week 34, including two people who required intervention in the intensive care unit. There were no deaths reported.

The numbers are based on comparisons of total severe outcomes that are provided in the current and previous week's report.

Wastewater surveillance data up to Aug. 22 indicates increased COVID activity in Winnipeg and Brandon.

There have been 2,508 deaths from COVID in Manitoba and 53,345 deaths in Canada, according to federal government data as of Aug. 19.

OTHER HEALTH NEWS:

-COVID-19 Resources Canada, group of health and data experts, issues a COVID hazard index for provinces and territories based on current infections and spread, health-care system impact and deaths. Its estimate for the period Aug. 26 to Sept. 8 shows Manitoba's COVID hazard at 6.8 or very high.

-In the World Health Organization's last weekly epidemiological update of Sept. 1 (the WHO is moving to a four-week epidemiological reporting schedule), there were more than 1.4 million new COVID cases (an increase of 38 per cent) and over 1,800 deaths (a decrease of 50 per cent) reported to the organization between July 31 and

The reported cases "do not accurately" represent infection rates because countries have reduced testing and reporting, states the WHO. But the organization said it will use available sources to continue monitoring COVID and its impact on health systems.

CANADIAN COVID-19 FORECAST: August 26-September 8, 2023

'COVID-19 remains a major threat and WHO urges Member States to maintain, not dismantle, their established COVID-19 infrastructure," states the WHO. "It is crucial to sustain early warning, surveillance and reporting, variant tracking, early clinical care provision, administration of vaccine boosters to high-risk groups, improvements in ventilation, and regular communication."

The variant EG.5 is now the most prevalent variant of interest globally, accounting for 26.1 per cent of reported sequences from Aug. 7 to 13, according to the report. The variant BA.2.86 was classified as a variant under monitoring on Aug. 17, and as of Aug. 30, 21 sequences have been reported from seven countries.

As of Aug. 27, there have been over 770 million confirmed COVID cases and over 6.9 million deaths reported

Why is Canada Post distributing hate mail?

Today I received a book in my mailbox unaddressed so, presumably, it was sent to all the addresses in Stonewall and maybe beyond. The title of the book is "The Great Controversy" and seems to have been sent by an organization called Amazing Facts Ministry.

I have not and will not read it in detail but at a cursory glance at least I would call it hate literature directed at Roman Catholics. Such thinking (sic) and such efforts to spread such thinking are disturbing enough but my main objection is that Canada Post has become complicit in spreading such vile opinion dressed up as religion by agreeing to distribute it.

Having sent off this letter, I will now return the book, along with my objections, to the local post office and encourage others to do the same.

All MPI locations closed and scheduled appointments cancelled until further notice

Submitted by MPI

Due to continued Manitoba Government and General Employees' Union strike action, all Manitoba Public Insurance (MPI) locations will be closed and all scheduled appointments will be cancelled until further notice. This includes all driver testing, estimating, adjusting and driver fitness appointments. Affected customers will be contacted to reschedule at a later date. More information is available on MPI's website.

MPI has worked closely with its partners across the province to minimize the impacts customers may experience because of the strike action.

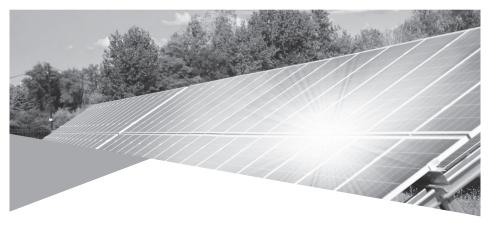

In collaboration with these partners, the following services will continue:

• Customers with general inquiries or front-end service transactions, including licensing renewal and insurance payments can visit one of MPI's nearly 300 broker partners. Find a broker in your community using our Find a Service tool.

- The MPI Contact Centre will remain open for reporting personal injury claims, non-drivable collision claims, and total-theft claims. Customers reporting all other passenger vehicle (car, SUV and light duty truck) claims can go to directly to an MPI-accredited repair shop for vehicle estimates and repairs, without calling MPI first.
- Essential services, such as income replacement payments for personal injury claimants, will continue uninterrupted.

MPI will update its website daily to reflect the most up-to-date service impact information available.

New Balmoral dance studio to host open house

By Jennifer McFee

A Balmoral-based entrepreneur is dancing on air after opening a brand new studio to offer instruction in dancing and creative movement in the Interlake.

For Lacey Blowers, owner and director of Prairie North Dance, it's always been her dream to open her own dance studio — and now the time seemed right.

Starting in September, Blowers plans to offer dance classes for kids aged five to 17 for the fall session. Looking ahead, she's also hoping to offer an adult class in the winter session.

"Over the 30 years I've been dancing, I have been so lucky to experience a wide variety of dance styles and disciplines. However, my personal favourite and deep passion is Irish dance. The classes I am offering right now will have a ballet and somatic movement base combined with performative and traditional Irish dance soft shoe and hard shoe instruction," she said.

"Classes will include equal parts technique as well as collective creation, where we will use different movements from all different styles of dance — ballet, jazz, modern, lyrical, Ukrainian dance, ballroom, Latin — to help reflect the emotions of the dance pieces we will be creating together.7

came a junior instructor at age 12 at the Ukrainian Academy of Dance. For more than a decade, Blowers also performed as both a Ukrainian and an Irish dancer in Folklorama pavilions. In 2007, she was the youth ambassador for the Celtic Ireland pavilion.

"I have performed all over Canada in various shows and festivals," she said. "One of the highlights of my career was dancing for then prime minister Stephen Harper and his cabinet in Ottawa for a private show as a representative of Folklorama and the Irish dance community in 2007.

She competed in dance across Canada and the U.S., and she also attended the University of Limerick in Ireland for an accreditation program in Irish dance and culture.

"During this program, I had the honour and privilege of training directly with professional Irish dancer Colin Dunne, former lead dancer of the show River Dance, as well as several other amazing Irish dancers, artists, singers, musicians, historians and linguists," she said.

"The program helped connect me deeper to the cultural roots of Irish dance and the history and significance of dance in general in our societies throughout human history. It was such a deeply impactful experience on so many levels, and I still utilize the connections I made with the students and staff at University of Limerick today."

After she retired from her competitive dance career included that ballet, Ukrainian dance and Irish dance, Blowers joined the Canadian Forces as an intelligence analyst. When she wasn't working full-time for the army, she attended university to get bachelor degrees in arts and education.

Although Blowers grew up in Winnipeg, she spent a lot of time north of The Pas in the Carrot River Valley where her parents long-distanced farmed until 2010.

"When I met my husband Michael, who is from Woodlands where his family farms, we connected on the experience of growing up in farming families," she said.

After they got engaged in 2011, Blowers lived in Woodlands for two years and ran an Irish dance program at Woodlands Elementary School through the Interlake School Division's continuing education program.

In August 2013, just a few days after their wedding, the newlyweds moved to Alberta for work. While they were there, Blowers worked full-time as a classroom teacher while also working part-time for the army.

"We thought we would be out in Alberta for a while, but as fate would have it, only two years later my husband ended up being promoted and sent to Winnipeg for work," she said.

"We knew instantly we wanted to move back to the Interlake and just fell in love with the community of Balmoral. While I am currently renting space for my dance studio from the Balmoral Community Hall, it is an ultimate dream of mine to build my own dance studio on our farm here in Balmoral."

to include their five children — Liam (8), Emberleigh (7), Teylie (5), Sophie (4) and Owen (19 months). In between her maternity leaves, she worked at several public schools where she always enjoyed the chance to teach some type of dance programming. In December 2021, she began working as an intelligence analyst for the Royal Canadian Air Force and hasn't taught in the public education system since then.

"While I just loved being a teacher and working with kids, I found the structure of the job itself really difficult to manage while also being a mom to my own five kids and a farmer's wife. This is what prompted me to make the move back to the military in 2021 when I was pregnant with my fifth child, specifically the RCAF reserves, as they offered me a hybrid contract, which essentially means I make my own hours — you can't ask for anything more perfect than that for a busy mom of five and a farmer's wife," she said.

"During seeding and harvest, I and during the winter when my not only my own kids but other kids in the community at the same time as mostly work part-time hours — whatever I can manage with the childcare options available to me at that time husband is home and can be with our kids, I work full-time. While I absolutely love my job with the air force, I definitely miss teaching children. So I am so excited to be starting this dance school and having such a flexible and supportive career in the military where I can have the ability to teach

"From the moment I was born, I have loved to dance and move my body in creative ways. Dance does so much for me. In addition to it being a fantastic form of physical activity, it is also a huge creative outlet for me. It allows me to be free and helps me to express such a wide range of emotions while telling the stories that are important to me in my life," she said.

"There is also nothing quite like dancing with others and having your bodies communicate together in a way that creates pure magic for the audience. Dance is the original way we communicated with each other. We used it before there was a spoken or written language."

This passion runs in the family since all five of her children also love to dance. "It's been such a joy watching them grow in their dance journey," she said.

"Right now, the favourite style of dance in my house is a split between hip hop and Irish dance — in particular, jigging/hard shoe."

Based on her lifetime of experience, Blowers believes dance creates connections to the collective unconsciousness of humanity.

"It connects us to the earth. It connects us to our past, present and future. It connects us together in both sorrow and joy," she said.

"Dance feels like life to me. I don't know where I would be without it."

That's why it's important to Blowers that her new dance studio reflects and supports the local communities.

"It is my dream in the future to be able to network with other rural dance studios and collaborate together to artfully blend the many different cultural styles of dance in this area," she said, "and to create choreography that directly reflects the past, present and future of the land — and the people who make up the heart of our communities."

How to improve flexibility

Improving flexibility is a goal for many athletes, whether they're daily exercise devotees or weekend warriors. Taking steps to improve and maintain flexibility has numerous benefits that can pay dividends for athletes of all ages.

According to the Harvard Medical School, well-stretched muscles more easily reach their full range of motion. That benefits athletes by improving their performance, and it can also improve daily life for non-athletes by making it easier to reach, bend or stoop to perform everyday tasks.

As beneficial as being physically flexible can be, many people, no matter how hard they try, struggle to improve or maintain their flexibility. Fortunately, there are some ways that devoted men and women can improve their flexibility and enjoy all of the benefits that increased flexibility provides.

· Choose the right activities. Harvard Medical School notes that activities that lengthen and stretch muscles can help active men and women reduce their risks for injury while potentially preventing back pain and issues that may affect their balance. When done correctly, yoga can improve balance and flexibility. In addition, numerous studies have linked yoga to additional health benefits, such as stress reduction, that can make people less tense, thereby improving their flexibility.

· Drink more water. Drinking water helps to prevent tightness and muscle cramps. In fact, tightness or muscle cramps in the large muscles of the leg may be indicative of the early stages of dehydration. Drinking plain water is the most effective way to stay and remain hydrated. Don't count coffee, tea or sports drinks as water, as such beverages many contain caffeine. Caffeine is a diuretic, and while diuretics cause the increased passing of urine, they also decrease the amount of water that is absorbed by the kidneys, potentially contributing to dehydration. Drink plenty of water before, during and after workouts.

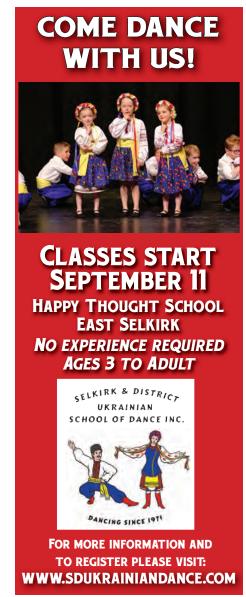

· Start over after an extended break. If it's been awhile since you last worked out, resist the temptation to push yourself when returning to the gym. Depending on how long it's been since you last exercised, you may need to start back at square one, which means reducing the amount of weight you lift and decreasing the resistance during cardiovascular exercises. Putting too much strain on muscles that have been sedentary for an extended period of time can cause aches, pains and even injury. Muscle tightness also may develop if you go too hard too quickly, greatly reducing flexibility.

Get up and go. Poor flexibility may be a byproduct of your lifestyle. Men and women who live sedentary lifestyles are less likely to enjoy the full range of motion from their muscles than those people who are more active. Get off the couch when spending time at home, and if you work in an office, take routine breaks to stand up and walk around.

Poor flexibility can be painful and inconvenient, but there are many ways for men and women to improve their flexibility and, as a result, their quality of life.

The many benefits of arts education

The arts are an important component of students' overall education.

Why does art matter? This is a question that has given philosophers and artists food for thought for centuries. It's also been a leading question in many school districts when budget cuts have forced school administrators to put various curricula on the chopping block. Very often arts programs are the first to be cut.

From their earliest years, many children communicate and learn through artistic expression. Songs help them learn words and repetition to develop speech and reading skills. Drawing, painting and crafting helps to solidify motor skills. Researchers from the Johns Hopkins University School of Education say that instruction becomes more effective when educators integrate creative activities. En-

Extracurricular activities for non-athletes

High school sports garner significant attention in communities that want to support their student-athletes. But what about students who aren't inclined to compete on the field or in the gym? There are many more non-athletes than athletes, and the following are some extracurricular activities that might appeal to students who aren't interested in sports.

Theater - School theater programs faced significant challenges during the COVID-19 pandemic, when indoor gatherings were limited if not outright restricted and students were forced to adapt to remote learning. But since COVID-related restrictions were lifted, many theater programs are back in full swing. In fact, the Educational Theatre AssociationTM notes that its programs were present in roughly 5,000 schools during the 2021-22 school year. Theater programs can expose kids to the performing arts but also teach youngsters who aren't interested in performing about backstage components, including set design and even script writing Volunteering - Volunteering is another potential extracurricular activity high school students might want to consider. Volunteering can expose children to potential career paths and introduce them to people from all walks of life. The vast majority of nonprofit organizations welcome and need volunteers, so students should be able to find an organization with a mission that aligns with their values.

Schools also may sponsor volunteer programs, and that can be a great way for students to engage with their school community.

Clubs - High schools are home to clubs that cater to all sorts of interests. Foreign language clubs, gaming clubs, book clubs, and debate clubs are just some of the many non-sports-related clubs students can join to participate more fully in campus life.

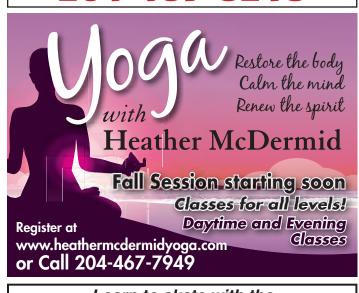

Physical activities - Just because kids aren't interested in traditional scholastic sports doesn't mean they don't enjoy breaking a sweat or being part of a team. Local community programs may offer club skiing teams, rowing clubs, hiking clubs, and other physical activities that are not affiliated with a school. Such options are great opportunities for kids to engage in physical activity and meet fellow fitness enthusiasts. One option kids may want to consider is a local recreational pickleball league. Pickleball has exploded in popularity in recent years and many communities now host competitive leagues for people of all ages.

Students who don't want to compete in scholastic sports can still find a wealth of extracurricular activities that align with their interests and even others that may stoke newfound passions.

How to establish fitness goals for kids

Physical activity benefits people of all ages, including kids. Despite widespread recognition of the positive impact physical activity has on children, many kids are not getting enough exercise. A study done, found that less than one in four children between the ages of six and 17 participates in 60 minutes of physical activity per day. When established in childhood and adolescence, good habits like exercising regularly can set young people up for a long, healthy life. Perhaps in recognition of that, parents often look for ways to promote physical activity to their youngsters. Setting fitness goals is one way to help young people exercise more, and the following are a handful of strategies parents can try as they seek to promote a love of

Include fun activities in a fitness plan. Adults recognize the importance of planning when aspiring to achieve certain goals, and a plan can be just as integral to getting kids to be more physically active. When de-ing an organized sport, and include that in the fitness plan.

- · Involve kids' friends. In essence, kids are more inspired to exercise with friends than they are with family members. When establishing fitness goals for kids, parents can work with other parents so kids can pursue those goals together, increasing the chances that those pursuits will be successful.
- · Set aside time to exercise each day. Physical activity should be part of everyone's daily routine, and kids are no exception. Such activity does not need to be a grueling workout, and indeed children's bodies will need time to recover after especially strenuous exercise. But setting aside time each day to be physically active is a good way to ensure kids' lifestyles are not predominantly sedentary.

· Make the goals attainable. Parents may know before kids begin exercising or notice shortly after they start being more physically active how much kids can reasonably handle. The YMCA notes that's an important factor to consider, as fitness goals should be attainable so anyone adjusting to a new regimen, even kids, stays motivated. A child's pediatrician can advise on how much exercise youngsters should get each day, and parents can help kids gradually reach that point by setting challenging but attainable goals.

Regular physical activity can benefit kids for the rest of their lives. Parents can pitch in by embracing various strategies to help kids establish attainable goals that make fitness fun.

couraging creativity and imagination across all disciplines can help shine light on new concepts and help students discover connections and innovative ideas.

To bolster support of arts in the classroom, parents and educators can point out the following benefits of arts education.

- · Increases creativity: The arts let students express themselves in different ways and offer outlets for all types of skills.
- Improves academic performance: A report by Americans for the Arts indicates young people who regularly participate in the arts are four times more likely to be recognized for academic achievement than non-participants.
- · Develops motor skills: Arts helps foster motor skills, which are essential for writing letters and words, playing musical instruments, using paintbrushes, and much more.
- · Helps one appreciate numeracy: Art involves patterns and problem solving. Learning these skills translates into many different disciplines, including mathematics.
- · May accelerate brain development: Bright Horizons reports learning to play an instrument has been found to improve mathematical learning, boost memory and lead to improved academic scores.

The benefits of arts in the classroom cannot be ignored. The arts encourage students to utilize many skills that translate to various subjects.

Student cyber security precautions

Students should implement cyber security practices at home and in school.

Thanks to advancements in technology, students and educators are increasingly turning to birth, tablets and computers when working on daily assignments and classroom activities. Students rely on the internet for research and keeping in touch with teachers and other students, and work is even assigned and completed via digital platforms.

Despite the upside of technology, cybercrime is a potential pitfall of all that time spent online. The internet provides instant access, and that can put students at risk.

According to Verizon's 2016 Data Breach Investigations Report, the education sector ranked sixth in the United States for the total number of reported "security incidents." Schools are data-rich, meaning they give hackers access to information like identification numbers, birthdates, email addresses. financial data, medical records, and

Students must understand cyber security risks when working and sharing data online. The following are some tips students can follow.

- Protect passwords. Students are urged to keep their passwords to themselves. This prevents others from using accounts maliciously or even in seemingly harmless ways that can put you in trouble, such as searching for inappropriate content in school. Choose complicated passwords that can't be easily guessed, and opt for two-step authentication whenever offered.
- · Use secured WiFi networks. Free or open WiFi connections are not encrypted, meaning they can be accessed by anyone. Many cyber criminals gain access to information through these channels. Schools should have encrypted systems in place.
- · Limit what you share on the internet. Students are urged to be aware of what they share online. According to DataManagement, a computing service, information posted to social media is permanent, and deleted items aren't necessarily gone. Exercise caution on social media. Don't post unless it is something you would be comfortable sharing in public.

- · Watch out for phishing scams. Phishing usually occurs through fraudulent email messages that mimic the look of reputable solicitations. Scammers rely on these tactics to tempt people to click on links or download attachments that can put malware on a device and steal personal data. Exercise caution with all links and downloads.
- Schedule routine backups. Data can be lost if a device crashes, so routinely back up personal devices and home computers. Backups can be stored on external hard drives or with cloud services
- Exercise caution when filesharing. UC Santa Cruz's information technology services says viruses and malware can be transmitted by filesharing software, and files offered by others may not be what they say they are. Only used school-approved filesharing op-

Performance pointers that can help student athletes avoid injury

Professional sports teams often note that injuries are part of the game. That notion is never too far from professional athletes' minds, but it can be a harsh reality for student athletes to confront, especially if they have never before been sidelined by injury. Though there's no foolproof way for athletes to avoid injury, student athletes and their families can consider these preventive measures to reduce their risk of being sidelined.

· Use diet to athletes' advantage. A healthy diet benefits people from all walks of life, and it can be especially beneficial for student athletes. Precisely what defines a healthy diet depends on variables specific to the athletes, such as age and gender, but Nemours Childrens Health notes that balance is vital for teenage athletes. Avoid cutting back on carbohydrates, which provide fuel for young athletes. When choosing carbs, opt for fruits, vegetables and whole grains instead of sugar-laden options like candy bars. The latter can provide a quick energy burst but then cause an energy crash that makes athletes feel fatigued. In-game fatigue can increase risk of injury. In addition, calcium and iron can be vital to young athletes looking to avoid injury. Calcium helps strengthen bones while iron carries much-needed oxygen to athletes' muscles. Protein is important for athletes, but Nemours notes that most teenage athletes who eat healthy diets already get ample protein. As a result, protein powders and shakes are not necessary for teenage muscle growth.

· Make a good night's rest part of athletes' routine. A good night's rest is vital for student athletes, as it ensures they aren't playing tired. Tired athletes have slower reaction times and that can increase injury risk. Adequate sleep also benefits athletes' performance. A 2015 study published in the journal Physiology & Behavior found that athletes who increased their nightly sleep from seven to nine hours experienced significantly improved performance after doing so.

· Emphasize the rules of the game. The rules of the game aren't in place solely to encourage fair play. Rules also are designed to keep athletes safe. For example, student athletes who play contact sports, including football and soccer, should be taught proper ways to tackle so they can avoid injuring themselves and others. Coaches can reinforce these lessons during practices and even games if the need arises.

· Prioritize offseason conditioning. Rest and recovery are vital for any athlete, but especially student athletes whose bodies are still growing and changing. Off seasons have largely fallen by the wayside, but parents can protect their student athletes by encouraging them to avoid year-round competition. During periods when student athletes aren't competing, they can forgo in-season workout routines to reduce their risk for overuse injuries while also improving their conditioning through cardiovascular workouts. Running on a treadmill, using an elliptical machine and/or swimming are great activities that make it easy for student athletes to keep their bodies in shape as their muscles and joints recover from the season.

Mollard breeding a line of show horses and training future stars

By Joshua Frey-Sam

Amanda Mollard knows the dedication it takes to breed, train and show horses as well as anyone.

She did it while growing up on her family farm in Stonewall, showing off some of her most prized horses on the national stage since she was five years old. Mollard did that year-round until 2012 when she decided to fly the coop to Woodlands, where she would begin breeding her own line of show horses under the label Rocky Road Performance Horses.

"I always wanted to do it since I was little," said Mollard, 31.

Mollard has since extended her training to young prospective riders, who have also worked their way to the national spotlight.

Mollard accompanied some of her brightest pupils — and purebreds and half-Arabs — to Red Deer, Alta. where Canada's National Arabian Championship took place from Aug. 12-19.

One youngster, Whitley Monforton — in her first national event — and her horse Wildflower earned top honours in jumping events, the 'hunter over fences 2 ft. 6 jtr' and 'hunter hack open' events. She then placed second (Reserve Champion) in the hunt seat equitation (U13) ride, in which she was judged on her body position and how well she handled her horse.

McKenzie Schnell and her horse Justa Sugar Rush continued a strong showing for Manitoba, earning top six finishes in the 'half Arabian dressage training level junior horse,' 'half Arabian sport horse under saddle junior horse' and 'half Arabian western pleasure junior horse.'

There were a number of riders representing Rocky Road Performance Horses.

Kiera Schnell and Tannis Tait both rode Exclusive Rohan, in dressage, sport horse and hunter pleasure.

Layla Bittner rode her purebred Arabian, Ringo Star, in walk trot hunter pleasure 10 and under, walk trot hunt seat equitation 10 and under, and showmanship 13 and under.

"It takes a lot of work, that's for sure," said Mollard. "The kids did really good, they worked hard all year round to get to that point and they came home with championships. They had good rides, they had bad rides, they had fun and they learned lots."

The strong showing from her students was equally rewarding for Mollard, she said.

"I used to love showing when I was a kid. The fact that they do so well and they're happy and they accomplish what a lot of the kids would like to do and can't or won't. It's not like showing at a little fair around home. It's a lot different. It's scarier for the kids, and when they go in there and they do so well and they think that they're not going to, they have melt-downs. And then they come out with championships that they didn't think that they could do because we don't have a lot of big shows around here."

The youngsters trotted against some stiff competition from states like California and Arizona, where shows are done year-round. Mollard's horses train anywhere from two to four times a week all year but don't compete nearly as often, due to a lack of available shows.

Mollard has been to the national Arabian championship almost every year since she began riding horses. It certainly won't be the last time she attends, and based on the success of her pupils, they'll be right there with her.

"It's nice to see them realize that they can actually do it," she said.

Stonewall United blanked 3-0 by Interlake Impact

By Brian Bowman

The Stonewall United are in a real battle in the Manitoba Major Soccer League 4th Division standings.

Stonewall was shut out 3-0 by the Interlake Impact at home last Wednes-

Benny Wiens scored twice while Joseph Barkman also tallied.

"Ît was probably one of our worst games this season, I would say," said the United's Jason Ferris. "We could have used the points because we're at the bottom of the standings and we're trying to keep out of the relegation area. We couldn't string passes together and we couldn't score goals. We had chances. We had more chances than them to win but we couldn't put the ball in the net and they did."

The loss allowed Interlake to jump ahead of Stonewall in the standings. The Impact now has 17 points to occupy fifth place in the 10-team division. Interlake is one point ahead of Stonewall and Richmond United.

Stonewall really enjoys playing another Interlake team. Both teams play the game the right way.

"Having another Interlake team in the Manitoba Major Soccer League is good for us small towns," Ferris said.

Stonewall United's Daunte Lourenco heads the ball against the Interlake Impact during MMSL 4th Division action last week in Stonewall.

"There's not too many towns left in the Manitoba Major Soccer League so having another Interlake team is phenomenal."

The United will host Richmond United in a very important game on Sunday. Game time is 5 p.m.

"Our last game was (poor) so we had a little meeting afterwards," Ferris said. "We need to really buckle down and get two good performances in September and make sure we have enough guys coming out. If we could stay in the 4th Division that would be good."

Ferris wanted to thank the fans that have been coming out to their games and the support the team has received from Jason Manning, the owner of the Rockwood Motor Inn.

U13, U15 AA Interlake Phillies compete at provincials

By Brian Bowman

The U13 AA Interlake Phillies posted a 3-3 record - and finished fourth at the 10-team provincials in Brandon last month.

Interlake played very well at the provincials.

"It wasn't too bad of a result," said Phillies' head coach Nick Germaine. "They gave it their all in the last game for the bronze medal. We were down three runs going into the last inning and we were away so we needed the runs, which we did and tied it with two outs."

The Phillies had a runner on third in an extra inning but could not cash her in. Interlake eventually lost the game 15-14 to Central Charge.

Interlake enjoyed a really good season, both on the diamond and away from it. The Phillies improved a lot over the course of the season.

"It was definitely a good group of girls. It was my first year coaching softball and I got to learn a lot," Germaine said. "I think the girls learned a lot about the game, game play, batting and throwing.

"We did some team-building stuff. We went to the movie Barbie in Stonewall so they all dressed up in pink and all of that stuff. We also did some team breakfasts."

The U15 AA Phillies, meanwhile, finished with an 0-4 record at the provincials in Brandon.

"It was due to injuries, we had a lot of injuries on our team," said Phillies' head coach Carmen Germaine.

The experience of playing at provincials will help the players in future

"I think they learned a lot and learned what it takes to play at this level," Carmen said. "The drive they need to have and (what they need) to do to play at this level and compete at this level."

The Interlake players bonded very well throughout the season and at provincials. Players came from across the Interlake.

"The Phillies' program, I think, is doing a really great job," Carmen said, noting the Phillies now have three AA teams. "They're doing a great job making sure that ball is present in the Interlake. They're getting the word out there as much as they can and they are trying to host as many big tournaments as they can in the area, which is huge because it's a huge undertaking."

Jets busy on the trade front

The Manitoba Major Junior Hockey League announced last Thursday that the Stonewall Jets had made a trio of

On Aug. 25th, the Jets traded the playing rights of Brandon Ferg (04) to the St Boniface Riels.

August 4 saw Stonewall deal the playing rights of Brock Assailly to the St James Canucks for the playing rights of Liam Johnson. No conditions apply.

Back on July 14, the Jets traded the playing rights of Ty Hogue to the Charleswood Hawks for the playing rights of Cole Kennedy. Again, no conditions apply.

The Jets will open their preseason schedule on Friday (6 p.m.) against the Transcona Railer Express. Stonewall will then face-off versus the Pembina Valley Twisters Saturday (3:15 p.m.) and the Fort Garry/Ft. Rouge Twins on Sunday (noon).

All three games will be played at the Ed Goulding (East End) Arena.

LeClair represented Manitoba at a pair of major box lacrosse events

By Brian Bowman

Emelia LeClair was able to play the sport she loves at a pair of tournaments this summer.

She represented Manitoba at the North American Indigenous Games (NAIG) in U19 box lacrosse in Halifax and at the National U17 box lacrosse in Regina.

"It wasn't a dull summer," said the 14 year old from Stonewall. "It was so amazing. I had so much fun. It was a really good experience for me. I had a lot of fun with the girls and travelling with them and playing lacrosse."

LeClair really enjoys competing against - and playing - with older players. She also likes competing against other provinces.

At the NAIG, she scored four goals and added three assists as Manitoba, which placed fourth, played against Saskatchewan, Ontario, B.C., and Al-

Culturally, it was also a great experience. So too, was the chance to watch other sports.

Selkirk Jr. B Fishermen begin training camp on Monday

By Brian Bowman

The Selkirk Jr. B Fishermen are set to defend their three-time Capital Region Junior Hockey League title.

Selkirk will hold two tryout practices on Sept. 11 and Sept. 13 at 8 p.m. at the Selkirk Recreation Complex.

Registration, which costs $50, will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Fish office. Players must provide their name, date of birth, hand of shot, preferred position, and last team played for.

Everyone is really excited to get out on the ice for another exciting season.

"Coming off a victory in a championship is always fun and we'll see if we can do it again," said Fishermen head coach Chris Poponick last week. "I'm getting antsy after making lots of phone calls about hockey lately."

Selkirk has a tremendous core of players returning this season but both of the Fishermen goalies from last season have aged out of junior hockey.

"We're looking for a couple of goaltenders so we're hoping to get a bunch of goalies out at camp," Poponick said. "We're also hoping to get all of the APs that we had out last year come out as well. We're looking forward to a really good season."

Selkirk will be competing in a preseason tournament later this month, hosted by the Lundar Falcons. The Fishermen will play the Falcons on Sept. 23 (8 p.m.) and the St. Malo Warriors Sept. 24 (4 p.m.).

Cvar lacing up the skates at Mercyhurst

By Brian Bowman

Olivia Cvar made the change this year from playing hockey for the St. Cloud State Huskies in Minnesota to the Mercyhurst University Lakers in Pennsylvania.

She also changed her jersey number. There are a couple of reasons why she made the switch.

"I wanted a number (91) that stood out and I think I left a good impression in my career there (with the Huskies)," she explained. "I helped St. Cloud to reach No. 12 in the NCAA ranking, the highest in St. Cloud history. My family helps to provide me with the strength and encouragement to reach my potential.

"My grandfather was No. 9 when he was a youngster growing up in Gimli and my father's birthday is nine, so it should do me well."

Cvar, now 22 years old, did extremely well at St. Cloud State, scoring 25 goals and producing 44 points in four Going from Minnesota to Pennsylvania is not an easy decision. But Cvar said the Lakers are really good and her teammates are awesome.

"I think I just needed a culture change," Cvar said. "I got that extra year from COVID, so I thought, I got my elementary degree and everything is good with that. I just wanted to try something different for one year and see what it's about out here."

Mercyhurst went to Sweden in July to play four games against the Swedish national, Olympic, and develop-

Over the course of their journey overseas, the Lakers were able to enjoy a great experience on and off the ice. The experience gained from their Swedish adventure will benefit them in the upcoming season ahead.

Cvar was able to bond with her teammates and coaches, which she really enjoyed.

"It was amazing," said Cvar, who grew up in Gimli and her family now lives in Stonewall. "I have never been anywhere in Europe before so it was a big culture change but I really liked

Martin excels at Riding Mountain Triathlon

By Brian Bowman

The triathlon is a gruelling sport that takes a ton of grit, determination, and perseverance.

But Stonewall's Andrew Martin makes it look easy.

Martin placed first at the 2023 Riding Mountain Triathlon (in the Olympic distance) after posting an impressive time of 2:13:20.2. in mid August.

"I was happy with the time and it was a personal best time for that so that was good," Martin said.

At 26 years old, Martin feels he's getting better in the sport.

"I just got into it last year, actually, during COVID and got into it by fluke," he said. "Since the start of the year, I've been getting faster because I'm relatively new to it. In 2020 during COVID, my Achilles went on me so I wasn't able to run, I wasn't able to bike, so I just started swimming a little bit. That was a form of exercise that I could do that the Achilles could handle. At that point, I thought when I heal and get stronger (and I always biked before) why don't I do all three (events) and get into triathlon."

"In 2021, there were no races due to COVID and then in 2022 that's when I got into it and I liked it."

TRIBUNE PHOTOS SUBMITTED

Stonewall's Andrew Martin placed first overall at the 2023 Riding Mountain Triathlon.

The triathlon isn't for everyone.

"I always did a lot of running when I was younger and I always enjoyed running and biking as well," Martin said. "I wanted something with more of a challenge, something different than just running. I guess I'm a sucker for punishment."

The triathlon community is full of great people who encourage each

"I would say that's another thing that got me into the sport and kept me into it from last year is that one, Manitoba is small and the Triathlon Manitoba is small and tight-knit, so everyone knows everyone," Martin said. "Everyone is really friendly and they all get along really well. That's a nice (aspect of it) it and something that I was pleasantly surprised about."

Varsity Thunder to play Park West Outlaws on Friday

By Brian Bowman

The Interlake Thunder varsity football team is ready to open its Rural Manitoba Football League season in Shoal Lake.

Interlake will take on the Park West Outlaws this Friday. Kickoff is 5 p.m.

"The team and I are very excited to get this season going," said Thunder head coach Christof Hasselfield. "The players have been working hard all spring and fall camp. I think they're itching to finally line up across from someone else for a change. Plus, you never truly know what you have in a team until you actually test it in a regular-season game. We're ready for the test."

Interlake played Park West last season and it was a high-scoring affair.

"When we played them last year it was a bit of a shootout ending with a 71-42 victory for us," Hasselfield recalled. "Obviously, we'd like to contain their offence more effectively this year. As for what their offence will look like is hard to say, with graduation and general turnover from year to year in the league. Our game plan for Week 1 is simply to play fundamentally sound on both sides and start to find our identity on defence and offence.

"As we gather more tape and statistics on future opponents we will start to aim to shut down or exploit tendencies."

Starting the season on the road can be a good thing.

"I will have started all three of my years in the RMFL on the road now, including this year's season opener in Shoal Lake," Hasselfield said. "I think a road trip to start the season is a great chance for the team to come together and start to gel. The change of scenery will be nice as well. Regardless of where we play opening games it always comes down to how the team reacts to the change in pace and intensity. We're a young team this year but we started many Grade 9s last year so we're hoping that experience will be able to lead on the field and help weather the opening rush of a new football season.

This year's Thunder roster has a lot of speed and about half of the players are returning ones.

"Offensively, we're smaller than last year after losing an amazing senior offensive line but we have a lot of speed in space with multiple weapons who can take it the distance on any play. Offensively, I've also been impressed with the buy-in through camp. This year we expanded the playbook and tweaked some formations and motions from last year. Returning players, as well as rookies, have clearly bought in and put in the time mental-

"Defensively, we have more upperclassmen and a lot of size in the defensive interior as well as safeties and outside backers who can run sideline to sideline. If we can play as a unit our hope is to spill offenses horizontally then run them down with our second level speed."

The Thunder have had a really good turnout of players this season that live all across the Interlake.

"I started with the Thunder the year after the cancelled Covid season. It's great to see the numbers continue to grow over the past two years," Hasselfield said. "Our team is made up of a healthy mix of players from Gimli, Selkirk and Stonewall as well as many towns between. This season will mark the first year we are using online meetings to review game tape as a team. This has so far been a very effective and accessible way to get the team together when we pull from such a vast area."

The RMFL has added two new teams - the Winnipeg Falcons and St. Vital Mustangs - for the 2023 season.

"I grew up in Winnipeg playing football since I was nine years old. I've played the Falcons and Mustangs countless times in my career and it's exciting to have them added to the league," Hasselfield said. "I think any growth for the league is exciting. I got a chance to watch both teams in an exhibition game a few weeks ago. Both teams looked good for August football. I also appreciated how much both teams were willing to air the ball out. We're looking forward to getting to play both this season."

For Hasselfield personally, he will be making the transition from offensive coordinator to head coach.

"I'm extremely grateful for this opportunity, taking on the role of head coach. Mitch (Obach) let me know we'd likely be making the transition midway through last season. It helped to have a full offseason to prepare. I will retain offensive play-calling duties - a role I've had both my previous years with the Thunder," said the 30 year old. "So far, I'm really enjoying the role. Having a great support staff and parent group have made the transition with some of the duties outside of the Xs and Os very smooth."

IN MEMORIAM

Bradley Cody James Jackson (Allan) February 9, 1997 - September 8, 2018

How has it been five years since we heard you laugh, heard your voice, felt your warmth with every hug. We can still remember every moment since getting the worst call of our lives as though it was yesterday and yet it feels like it's been a lifetime since seeing you smile. It is said that time will ease the pain and life will continue but with each passing minute, hour, day, week, month and year, the pain of losing you gets stronger. Life will never be the same since we lost you.

OBITUARY

Cameron Moffat July 6, 1957- August 27, 2023

With broken hearts we share the passing of our deeply beloved Husband, Dad and Papa Cameron Moffat.

After a swift and courageous battle with Cancer, Cam passed away at home as he wished surrounded by his family. Cam was 66 years young.

Left to mourn the loss is his adoring and loving wife Kim, daughter Crystal (Jeremy) Bergthorson, son Cody Moffat, granddaughter Natalie and grandsons Alex and Benett.

Cam had endless love and pride for his two children and three grandchildren. From the day they were each born they were the lights of his life. He was forever supporting them and always there for anything they needed. Cam had the deepest devotion and love for his wife. He was her soul mate.

Cam is predeceased by his mom and dad Anne and Gordon Moffat, His mother and father-in-law Phyllis and Dennis Clare all from Woodlands, Mb.

Cam is survived by his brothers Gordon (Marlies) Moffat, Randy (Louise) Moffat as well as many nieces and nephews and dear friends.

Cam was always creating and building. Whether it was at home or at the lake. Wherever he was he was always happy, smiling and making people laugh. Of the 36 years married, 30 of them were also spent creating memories with dear friends and family at Lynch's Point Campground.

Cam grew up in River Heights. After some convincing the quiet and lack of city lights wasn't all that bad. He fell in love with country living and raised the family in Woodlands on the Clare family farm, and fostered 17 children throughout the years as well.

Sincere thank you to Dr. Kadane, Dr. Laylek at HSC Cancer Care. Dr Graham and the entire Palliative Care team in Stonewall for taking such great care of Cam. Special Thank you to nurses Amber, Laurie, Kaitlyn, Kesneil for your endless compassionate care. Thank you to Stonewall Pharmacy for always quickly taking care of Cam, and being a support for our family.
